Closing Date: December 5, 2016

Central Connecticut State University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor specialist in publishing, editing, and digital writing. Especially important for this position is the ability to mentor students in standards of editing and publishing in creative, professional, and industry writing. The successful candidate will teach courses primarily in the Writing and Creative Writing minors including but not limited to Writing for Digital Media, Publishing (including a lab and production of an online literary magazine), Introduction to Creative Writing, and creative writing courses in poetry, fiction, creative nonfiction, or playwriting. Normal load is 12 credits per semester. The position also requires active scholarship and publication in the field, plus university and professional service. Candidates are expected to be committed to promoting multiculturalism and working with a diverse student body.

Required Qualifications

- Ph.D. or MFA in Writing Studies or related field
- Professional experience in writing, editing, and/or publishing in print and digital media
- Minimum three years' experience teaching in field at college level, full-time or part-time
- Record of scholarly or creative publication in field
- Commitment to serving culturally, ethnically, and linguistically diverse communities

Preferred Qualifications

- Record of publication of poetry, fiction, creative nonfiction, or drama in nationally-recognized venues
- Experience teaching creative writing at the college level
- Experience supervising student publications

For full consideration, applications must be received by December 5, 2016. Salary and rank are commensurate with education and experience. For more information and application instructions, go to: <https://hrat.ccsu.edu/default.php>.
